
ACWAY Global Youth Forum 2026

From Intercultural Dialogue to Action

Tashkent, Uzbekistan | 8 June - 10 June

Background

A Common Word Among Youth (ACWAY) is an international youth network which brings together young people from diverse backgrounds to increase the understanding of different cultures and faiths and to promote peace and coexistence through delivering local community projects. Over the last decade, ACWAY has brought together over 1000 young people through 8 international training forums globally.

In 2026, with the Youth Affairs Agency of the Republic of Uzbekistan as our co-hosts, ACWAY will conduct its ninth forum in Tashkent, Uzbekistan. Uzbekistan occupies a uniquely powerful position from which to host a forum of this nature because 60% of the population is younger than the age of 30. Uzbekistan also served as the centre of Islamic scholarship for over a thousand years, giving it a rich tradition of intercultural exchange and religious coexistence that predates the modern era.

Objectives

- Building skilled, action-ready youth leaders: This ACWAY Forum will equip participants with targeted training in advocacy, dialogue, and project design, ensuring they leave with practical tools to drive interfaith and intercultural change in their own communities.
- Strengthening a global network with a unified vision: The forum will bring together 80+ youth leaders, including 50 from multiple countries, to collaborate, facilitate peer-to-peer knowledge sharing, and co-create a unified interfaith statement that serves as a collective legacy and blueprint for future action.
- Turning ideas into lasting impact: Through ACWAY's Interfaith Development Goals (IDGs) and structured cross-sector partnerships between grassroots and international organisations, participants will design and launch community-based initiatives built for long-term scalability and real-world results.

Methodology

This forum is built around three pillars: Advocacy, Dialogue, and Action. Through advocacy, participants will build a shared foundation for inclusion, mutual respect, and peaceful coexistence across cultures and faiths. Through dialogue, they share their experiences, lessons learned, and insights from their communities. And through action, they turn those conversations into real projects, leaving the forum with practical tools to create change where they live and work. Together, these three pillars form a participatory and practice-oriented methodology that is grounded, people-centred, and built for impact, ensuring both immediate learning and longer-term impact.
